Fate of Charles Pumphrey, Boy Accused of Chinaman's Murder.

JURY NOW HAS THE CASE County Attorney Spends Two and Half Hours in Closing Argument and Large Crowd Listens.

The fate of Charles Pumphrey, charged with beating to death Ham Pak, a Chinese restaurant keeper at 130 Douglas street, was submitted to the jury Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

A large crowd listened to the closing argument of County Attorney English Saturday afternoon at the instructions of Judge Troup. Deep interest was manifested in all the proceedings and the crowd loitered around the corridors of the court house for an hour after the jury retired.

The crime with which Pumphrey was charged was committed early on the morning of July 11 in the kitchen of the restaurant. Pumphrey, Mullen and Willis Altmack, who were in the restaurant at the time, fled on the 3 o'clock Rock Island train and finally landed in St. Louis.

Some evidence to corroborate both stories was introduced and the defense also took the theory that Ham Pak did not die as the result of his wounds but of cholera, administered by the physicians. This was denied by the surgeon and by Dr. Lavender, coroner's physician, who testified a compound fracture of the skull he suffered was a mortal wound and he could not have recovered.

Interest is added to the case by the youth of the three boys involved. Pumphrey is 19 years old, Altmack 19 and Mullen 17.

CHICAGO WINS FIGHT

and that if it was necessary to do so, which it was not, he would be willing to stand with them in the guarantee. Nothing was said in the committee as to the building in Chicago in which the convention should be held beyond the quotation of the telegram of Messrs. Raymond and Upham, guaranteeing the Coliseum, with 14,000 chairs, but it is generally assumed that the convention will be held in the Coliseum. The telegram is regarded as fixing that location.

In the absence of Treasurer Schneider of Nebraska, who had charge of the fund in 1906, Chairman New said that he had been a member of the committee controlling that question and he could testify to the fact that Chicago had paid all of the expenses of the convention, as had been stated by Mr. Lowden.

His remarks were applauded. Kansas City's Claims. He was succeeded by T. J. Atkins, member from Missouri, who spoke briefly for Kansas City and then introduced Senator Warner of that state, who, he said, was one of the fruits of the republican victory in Missouri three years ago.

Senator Warner was received with loud applause and catcalls, showing that Kansas City's delegation was present in full force. Senator Warner recognized the delightful climate of Denver and Chicago's abundance of hotels and immense business, but he said he was making a bid for Kansas City, in which Missouri had a great pride. Kansas City, he declared, had a hall which could easily accommodate 15,000 people.

Senator Warner dwelt especially upon the political advantages of holding the convention in Kansas City. He said that Missouri had sixteen electoral votes; that he had labored for two score years to place that state in the republican column; that success had been achieved in 1904, when the state gave Theodore Roosevelt 25,000, and while it was not now assured a republican state, it was in the doubtful column. He said that Kansas City was not preventing any claim on account of any presidential preference and that all candidates might be assured of absolutely fair treatment if the convention should go to Kansas City.

Aid for Missouri. Senator Warner believed it would help Missouri as a doubtful state if Kansas City were chosen. The hotel accommodations, he said, were simple, there being 24 such institutions, which was double the number at the time the last democratic convention was held in Kansas City.

In answer to a question by Senator Scott as to whether all delegates of whatever color would be taken care of in a dignified manner, Senator Warner said if they did not feel perfectly able to guarantee that they would be he would stand before the committee and protest against the convention going to Kansas City.

Mr. Warner said that while he was not entrusted with the presentation of the financial feature he could say that Kansas City came to the committee with a substantial pledge, and not a mere promise, to take care of the convention in all ways, and he knew it would do so. He closed with a plea in the interest of the republicans in Missouri, saying: "If you ever intend to help us now is the time to do so."

Representative Bartholdt seconded Mr. Warner's speech and also urged the committee to send the convention to Missouri in the interest of the republican party of that state. Mr. Bartholdt said the republicans of Missouri had the democrats "on the run" and that this advantage ought to be followed up by selecting Kansas City, which would strike terror to the already terrified democrats.

How to Cancel the Debt. Representative New of Kansas City, and chairman of the Kansas City delegation, was introduced to present the financial aspect of the United States," solemnly announced President Blythe after he had got to their feet Vice President Fairbanks, Speaker Cannon, Secretary Cortelyou and Henry Knox. Then was sung a ditty which conjured with the names of all the presidential possibilities. It was followed which gave great admiration to the veracity of Ambassador Bryce, but kindly warned him that with it all he would be found wanting unless he learned the presidential game of tennis.

The menu souvenir was a collection of clearing house certificates issued by the thirty of the Gridiron Club Clearing House Association. There was a certificate for each course and each set forth a bit of humor.

The initiation as a member of the club of James P. Hornaday of the Indianapolis News was also made a matter of entertainment.

The guests of the club included Vice President Fairbanks, Speaker Cannon, Secretary Cortelyou, Postmaster General Meyer, Secretary Straus and many others.

At 11:46 the call of states was concluded and the hall cleared of outsiders preparatory to taking the ballot.

DINNER OF GRIDIRON CLUB

Newspaper Men Have Fun with Epigrams and Politicians. WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The Gridiron club began tonight its winter season of fun-making dinners by a lively entertainment of 300 men, prominent in politics, diplomacy and business. There was not a moment without jest, song or satire, and there was not a jest, song or satire that did not hold up for the merriment of all the guests present. To begin with, when President Samuel Blythe lighted the huge electric gridiron in the sumptuously appointed banquet hall the absence of the preliminary cocktail was emphasized. Vice President Fairbanks bore the brunt of this stunt, for in front of him stepped a gridironer and sang a ditty about an Indiana dinner where cocktails were served with subsequent regrets. Then Mr. Fairbanks was allowed a ration of buttermilk.

A class of nature fakings, through questions and answers, developed a logical connection between "Octopus and Wall Street." Also that if it is true that money takes President Roosevelt must be the richest man in the world.

"John Barry ain't brain," remarked one of the class. The story that George Washington threw a dollar across the Potomac was declared not to be a nature fake because Secretary Cortelyou had thrown $20,000,000 to Wall street.

"Why are the ships going to the Pacific?" was answered in many ways, chief among which was to seat Secretary Metcalf in the senate. A Japanese wrecker, a game of dice and an aggregation of "undesirable citizens" were all jests aimed at the "White House" and were productive of much merriment. The new state of Oklahoma made its appearance with democratic senators and representative and an electoral vote for Bryan. Chairman New of the republican national committee was required to "think it over," and then pranced in on hobby horses a squad of equestrian-tested army officers. "We will now drink to the president of the United States," solemnly announced President Blythe after he had got to their feet Vice President Fairbanks, Speaker Cannon, Secretary Cortelyou and Henry Knox. Then was sung a ditty which conjured with the names of all the presidential possibilities. It was followed which gave great admiration to the veracity of Ambassador Bryce, but kindly warned him that with it all he would be found wanting unless he learned the presidential game of tennis.

WOMEN IN SESSION AT YANKTON

South Dakota Y. W. C. A. in Annual Convention. YANKTON, S. D., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The fourth annual convention of the Young Women's Christian associations of the state is in session here with a large attendance of young people from all sections of South Dakota. A preliminary session was held Friday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. building in Platte Assembly hall at the city.

Opening address was delivered by Dr. Frank T. Bayley of Denver. He was greeted by a large audience. Most of the sessions, which continue until Sunday evening, will be held at the college, where the faculty are being hospitably entertained at the college and in the homes of citizens.

Among the more important features of the annual event are addresses by Miss Myrtle L. Robinson, dean of women, Dakota Wesleyan university; Miss Lucy Helen Pearson, state secretary of the state association; a second address by Dr. Frank T. Bayley of Denver and Miss Edith Noble. The services will be led by Dr. H. K. Warren, president of Yankton college; Miss Myrtle Robinson of Brookings; Miss Elizabeth Avery, dean of women, Bradford college; Miss Florence Starr, chairman of the state committee, and others. An interesting program has been arranged and the convention starts out favorably.

Interest in Coming Corn Show.

MITCHELL, S. D., Dec. 7.—(Special)—There is much interest in the coming state corn show, which is to be held in this city on December 17, 18 and 19. Secretary Warren states that he is receiving many enquiries and likewise many communications with reference to the corn show, which leads him to believe that the second exhibition is going to far surpass the initial one held last year. Aside from the fact that there are some splendid cash prizes for the competition of the farmers, they show a deeper interest in the corn lectures and the corn school that are to be held in connection with the show. Opposition to Drainage Ditch.

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Considerable opposition is developing to the construction of the proposed drainage ditch through the bottomland of the Sioux river, north of Sioux Falls. The proposed drainage system would drain upwards of 10,000 acres of land and would cost nearly $20,000, being one of the most extensive systems of its kind proposed in South Dakota. The county commissioners, at a meeting held this week, heard testimony of land owners both for and against the construction of the ditch, but decided to postpone final action until another hearing, which will be held on December 30.

Diets Coal Miner Killed.

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Richard Odip, an American miner, was killed at the Diets coal mines yesterday. This was his first day at the mine and at the time of death was waiting for the boss to order "in" to work.

Gall Stones Removed

WITHOUT THE KNIFE OR PAIN

I will give you an absolute guarantee to remove gall stones and bile elements in the system which produce them within five days without the use of a knife or saw. If you are a sufferer from gall stones you know this is a broad assertion to make. My new method was perfected, was successfully removed without the use of the knife. An operation means much pain and suffering, and so often a repetition of the operation. My new formulated method not only removes the stones, but rids the system of the cause that produces them. I have regularly family practices here and have successfully treated all cases that have come to me. If you are a sufferer, write me for further information and I will also be pleased to refer you to my former patients.
